Teachers Get in Free! WonderWorks Orlando Launches Teacher Wonder Days Celebration.

ORLANDO, Fla. - (September 3, 2025) – WonderWorks Orlando loves their local teachers and is inviting them to their annual Teacher Wonder Days celebration for educators on September 20, 21, and 27, 2025. During those special days, all certified Florida teachers can get free admission for themselves and one guest joining in on the adventure. To expand the fun even further, each additional guest joining the celebrate can snag tickets for only $22, plus tax, per person. Advanced registration and proof of employment are required.

“We want to show off for you, teachers!” said Davianys Ramos, education sales manager at WonderWorks Orlando. “Our attraction has everything you need for the ultimate field trip this school year. Teacher Wonder Days are always a blast, so we’re looking forward to meeting you!”

Now that teachers have made it through the official back-to-school season and the semester is in full swing, WonderWorks is inviting them to let loose and have some fun in the upside-down laboratory during Teacher Wonder Days. While visiting, they can meet the education sales team and see first-hand why WonderWorks is the perfect field trip destination in Central Florida.

All Florida state-certified teachers who wish to participate must register online in advance. Upon arrival, they will need to present their confirmation and school identification or a recent pay stub. Teacher Wonder Days are only open to Florida state-certified teachers (other faculty members and support staff are welcome to participate in Teacher Appreciation Days, held during the spring). Teachers will have the opportunity to explore over 100 interactive exhibits offered at WonderWorks and see the many ways they can inspire their students and enhance what they are learning in the classroom. WonderWorks is a popular school field trip destination, and they make it convenient for teachers to plan their group’s visit online.

“At WonderWorks, kids can learn something new while having fun, whether they realize it or not! We have something for space fans, aspiring artists, thrill-seekers, and much more. Be sure to come see us this fall,” said Brian Wayne, general manager at WonderWorks Orlando.

While WonderWorks works closely with teachers to enhance classroom learning, it is also a valuable educational resource for all parents and families. They offer a range of fun, interactive learning opportunities, both in person and online, including the Ask an Astronaut YouTube series, featuring former astronaut Dr. Don Thomas, where kids can learn about space careers. They also offer online printable activity sheets in the Kids' Corner.

Visitors to WonderWorks Orlando can enhance their learning experience by participating in the WonderWorks Casebook scavenger hunt. Additionally, the attraction will offer a chance for guests to get up close and personal with a variety of science experiment demonstrations on November 8, 2025, during the annual National STEM Day celebration. The experiments are included in the regular admission fee.

Homeschool families will not want to miss the discounted admission rates being offered to them on weekdays, during regular school hours, throughout September and October 2025. This provides homeschoolers with a chance to take their learning to the next level. More information about homeschool opportunities can be found online.
