WonderWorks Orlando Unveils New High-Tech Exhibits for a STEAM-Powered Spring Break

Magic Canvas AI and SuperBlaster join more than 100 hands-on attractions at the iconic upside-down building on International Drive

ORLANDO, Fla. - (March 12, 2026) – Spring break is here! March is an exciting time each year around Central Florida, as locals and tourists alike look for fun opportunities for the whole family. One stop topping the list each year is WonderWorks Orlando. This year, the popular attraction is taking things to the next level by launching new exhibits to encourage a STEAM-filled spring break. They offer something for adventurers of all ages, making it a great indoor entertainment stop for the whole family to keep guests learning, exploring, and having fun.

“Spring into learning at WonderWorks!” said Davianys Ramos, education sales manager at WonderWorks Orlando. “The upside-down house has everything you need to make this spring break a memorable one. Families can learn something new while having a blast. Our newest exhibits are already a big hit with guests!”

Conveniently located on International Drive, WonderWorks Orlando is the go-to spot for educational, family fun this month and beyond. Just in time for spring break, the upside-down house is installing two exciting new exhibits that encourage having a fun-filled spring that includes up-close looks at science, technology, engineering, art, and mathematics (STEAM). The learning doesn’t have to stop when schools let out.

Guests can let their creativity shine by trying out the first new exhibit, Magic Canvas AI. Using their fingertips, they can draw the prompt given to them on the small screen, and then watch with amazement as it is enhanced and brought to life on the big screen. The new interactive exhibit allows people to create a STEAM masterpiece by combining art and technology. Another exciting opportunity can be found at SuperBlaster, an exciting attraction that combines the best of the 4D Theater and laser tag. Guests will take a seat, choose their game, and get ready for a thrilling simulator, complete with motion seats, laser blasters, wind effects, and more. Work as a team or go head-to-head in a friendly competition for the highest score. These new exhibits are a great addition to the lineup of “edu-tainment” throughout the facility.

Families can also add some magic to spring break by opting for an evening at The Outta Control Magic Dinner Show. The show will amaze audiences of all ages with its unique format, jaw-dropping illusions, mind-blowing tricks, and exciting audience participation. Plus, guests get to dine on a delicious dinner of unlimited pizza, salad, dessert, and drinks. Shows are running nightly at 6:00 pm, and starting March 13, 2026, an additional show will be added nightly at 8:00 pm through the rest of the month. The shows often sell out, so making advanced ticket purchases highly recommended. Tickets for the dinner show can be purchased online.

Those looking for the best bargain will want to grab the 2 Attraction Pass ticket, which provides access to all WonderWorks exhibits and the dinner show. Tickets for WonderWorks can be purchased online.

WonderWorks Orlando has been a key part of the Central Florida experience for decades. They are thrilled to celebrate their 28th anniversary this spring, having opened on March 4, 1998. Since then, they have remained a go-to spot for educational, family fun in Central Florida. The WonderWorks team is looking forward to many more years of wonder ahead. Guests can continue to expect plenty of fun and memorable opportunities in the future, including educational events, new exhibits, exciting ticket deals, and more. With something for everyone to enjoy, it remains a must-stop on everyone's list.

"It's hard to believe we've been spreading wonder for 28 years!" said Brian Wayne, general manager at WonderWorks Orlando. "We're honored to be a favorite stop for vacationers and locals alike. Come celebrate with us this month!"
